Mr. President : Again has an impressive warning ry of HENRY CLAY, on Thursday, the 15th inst.: come to teach us that in the midst of life we are in death. The ordinary labors of this Hall are suspen- 13 guns at Sunrise; at intervals of 30 minutes, between the ded, and its contentions hushed, before the power of Him who says to the storm of human passions, as he said of old in the waves of Galilee, Peace, be still .-The lessons of his Providence, severe as they may be, often become merciful dispensations, like that which is now spreading sorrow through the land, and which is reminding us that we have higher duties to fulfil. and graver responsibilities to encounter, than those that meet us here, when we lay our hands upon His holy word, and invoke his holy name, promising to be faithful to that Constitution which he gave us in His mercy, and will withdraw only in the hour of our blindness and disobedience, and of his own

Another great man has fallen in our land. ripe indeed in years and in honors, but never dearer to the American people than when called from the theatre of his services and renown to that final bar where the lofty and the lowly must all meet at last.

I do not rise upon this mournful occasion to indulge in the language of panegvric. My regard for the memory of the dead, and for the obligations of the living would equally rebuke such a course .-The severity of truth is at once our proper duty, and our best consolation. Born during the Revolutionary struggle, our deceased associate was one of the few remaining public men who connect the present generation with the actors in the trying scenes of that eventful period, and whose names and deeds will soon be known only in the history of their coun-

But he possessed that intellectual superiority which overcomes surrounding obstacles, and which local seclusion cannot long withhold from general knowledge and appreciation. It is almost half a century since he passed through Chili othe. then Rosette; the Assistant Marshals will wear a white Scarl the seat of Government of Ohio, where I was a memher of the Legislature. on his way to take his place in this very body, which is now listening to this reminiscence, and to a feeble tribute of regard from one, who then saw him for the first time, but who can never forget the impression he produced by the charms of his conversation, the frankness of his manner, and the high qualities with which he was en-taken a part, and a prominent part, both in peace and war, in all the great questions affecting her interests and her honor; and though it has been often my fortune to differ from him, yet I believe he was ciples of Democracy, eulogizing the nominees of the of a nation-anxious for the public good, and seeking to attain it, during all the vicisitudes of a long and active life. That he exercised a powerful influence within the sphere of his action, through the whole country, indeed we all feel and know; and we know, too, the eminent endowments which gave him this high distinction.

Frank and fearless in the expression of his opinions, and in the performance of his duties, with rare powers of eloquence, which never failed to rivet the attention of his auditory, and which always comnanded admiration, even when they did not carry conviction: prompt in decision, and firm in action, and with a vigorous intellect. trained in the contests Joseph D. And we dwell upon them with mournful gratification now when we shall soon follow him to the cold and silent tomb, where we shall commit earth to earth. ashes to ashes, dust to dust, with the blessed conviction of the truth of that divine revelation which teaches us that there is life and hope beyond the narrow house where we shall leave him alone to the mercy of his God and of ours.

He has passed beyond the reach of human praise or censure, but the judgment of his cotemporaries has preceded and pronounced the judgment of histoof his countrymen for long ages to come. Yes, they will be cherished and freshly remembered when these marble columns that surround us-so often the witnesses of his triumph, but in a few brief hours, when his mortal frame, despoiled of the immortal spirit, shall rest under this dome for the last time, to become the witnesses of his defeat in that final contest where the mightiest fall before the -leaving their broken fragments to tell the story of former magnificence, amid the very ruins that announce decay and desolation.

I was often with him during his last illness, when the world and the things of the world were fast fading away before him. He knew that the silver cord wa almost loosened, and that the golden bowl was breaking at the fountain, but he was resigned to the will of Providence, feeling that He who gave has the right to take away in his own good time and manner. After his duty to his Creator and his anxiety for his family, his first care was for his country and his first wish for the preservation and perpetu ation of the Constitution and the Union, dear to him in the hour of death as they had ever been in the vigor of life. Of that Constitution and Union, whose defence in the last and greatest crisis of their peril deplores with a sincerity and unanimity not less Hon. WM. R. The 'Farmer's Journal' for July, contains several valuable articles on Agriculture. We extract the following on the cultivation of Rall Turnips. We are satisfied that farmers grow these roots too sparingly, and that, if they were to turn their atlention to their cultivation they would thereby greatly promote their interest, besides adding much to the comfort of their stock. If grown as cattle feed, it would be well to cultivate the more hardy kindsamong these stands pre-eminent the Rutabagus, but unless they be sown in the biginning of this month, it will be too late to grow them with any prospect of succeeding in making a heavy crop-next to this variety, may, perhaps, be ranked Dale's Hybrid, and Yellow Aberdeen, and Yellow Stone. They are hardy and keep well till spring. For table use the Red-top is our favorite,—the Norfolk, will however yield, more. New ground, it is generally conceded, is best adapted to the growth of turnips, probably because of the abundant suppry of potash it finds therein; the best crop we ever grew was upon an old pasture, which had been used as such for the space of 12 years. The soil was a deep sandy loam, and had at the time a pretty fair sward of grass upon it which after broadcasting over it a liberal dressing of manure we ploughed in fully 8 inches in depth, harrowed and rolled, then applied a lighter dressing of well rotted barn and stable manure, then ploughed it in 4 inches deep, harrowed, and cross-harrowed, rolled, sowed the seed, top-dressed with a mixture of 10 bushels of ashes, I of plaster and 2 of salt per acre, harrowed the seed in lightly with a light one horse harrow, and completed the work by rolling. When the plants first came up we sprinkled them over with fish oil, each morning, early, until they got into the rough leaf; strewed a bushel of plaster and 2 bushels of salt per acre, over them when they got into the rough leaf .-When they had bottled, as the phrase, is and the roots had got to be about the size of a walnut, we ran the cultivator through them, with the double purpose of working and thinning them. In a week or 10 days, we worked them with the hoe, thinning them out, so & Brown. as to stand from 8 to 10 inches, and in about the same length of time, gave them a fina! working with the boe, taking good care to eradicate the weeds and grass, and stir the ground well, without covering the roots. REMARKS .- At the time we closed our report last week, a faint hope was felt that there was a prospect of an improvement in the water communication, by the lat crains, and we are pleased to learn that our expectations have, in a measure, been realized. On Tuesday last the Cape Fear river had risen some six feet, which rise it is thought will enable some forty or more rafts of timber, which we understand is Gladstone, Capt . very much wanted, to reach the market in a few days, Gatens, P and probably bring some from above the locks. The river is at this time in good boating order, so far as water is necessary to that purpose. We can, however, as we stated last Thursday, look for but little produce at present, in consequence of the very busy season amongst the farmers, in their grain crops, though we presume if there has been a general rise a small amount of both turpentine and timber will find its way down. Business generally has been dull during the and has six rooms -an Office in the yard, has two rooms with LIVERPOOL: June 19.—The demand for Cotton since the Atlantic sailed had been rather better at a decline of 1-16d. a jd. on lower qualities. The sales on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday were 16,000 bales. On Saturday morning, there was rather an improved demand, and the sales would probably reach 6,000 bales at full rates.
